

Before our massagers leave the factory we have a single senior technician individually test each massager. He switches them on and off several times. He applies pressure to the head making it work really hard. As seen here he places each massager against his ear to make sure it sounds OK. Lastly, he checks the finish and polishes them with a soft cloth. You can see how shiny they are. He gets paid an excellent bonus, but only when the massagers have been sold and have proven to be of a consistent high quality. He has never missed his bonus.

The General Purpose Massagers have been in production since 2012. We've made a few changes to improve quality over the years, insist that the factory uses high quality parts, and have them thoroughly tested. They are hand assembled though and use components sourced from other companies so they are never going to be all 100% perfect. However, the overwhelming majority give a long and amazing service, especially from such an economically priced machine. Our factory does a great job, and we thank them very much.

We focus on QUALITY with the Australia patented Powerful professional machines (manufactured under Australian electrical standards and patents)
100% positive feed back from all clients .
I have 2 of these massage machines for personal use.
